

whyvyb.mp4

Hi. I want to record this straight from the heart. So, there's no script.

We get offered many programs every day, and very few of them meet our requirements, but some we think are okay and we will occasionally add a program into our multiple income streams.

Of course, our members have the opportunity to add their own programs into the multiple income streams, and they'll be seen by everybody within their We Share Abundance genealogy.

Now, until recently, we have never considered ourselves to partner with any other opportunity because we've never found one that we thought would last, and that was in alignment with our intentions, which are to help people, not to make money.

We're a not-for-profit organisation and so everything that is generated is used for the benefit of our members. And we were formed to help people, particularly to bring hope to the poor and forsaken, to bring courage to the hearts of the despondent, and to create new strength in the hearts of those who thought they were failures.

We believe that everybody has within them the power to change their life for the better, but most people need a little help to get started on the way, and that is why We Share Abundance exists. It's to give that start to people, to help them find a way that they can know that they are in charge of their own destiny and when I spoke with Megan Lynch, who is one of the owners of VYB, and I heard her talk in her videos, I understood that the principle behind VYB was very much the same as our own principle, in just helping people find a way to be in charge of their own destiny, and not controlled by circumstances into which they've been born or guided.

We also consider multiple income streams to be the safest and best way for everybody to generate income. Because if you have multiple income streams and one fails, you've got the others to fall back on and you can be looking for something to replace that failed one. It's not the best policy to rely on one income stream, and the fact that we have five different income streams in We Share Abundance doesn't count as five income streams because if We Share Abundance disappears, (it's not likely to), but if it does, that only counts as one income stream. Even though you've got five within We Share Abundance because they'll all disappear if we share, abundance disappears.

So, you need to be looking outside of an organisation to count it as a different income stream.

Now, within We Share Abundance, the vast majority of our members come from Africa, Asia and South America, and for those people there to find even 10 or $20 to commit into a business is difficult. There are people living in Europe and America that may be facing similar difficulties, but they're a minority, whereas they're a majority in a lot of the countries that we have our members in, We Share Abundance. And so, our plans are built around very low cost Start-Ups.

Now VYB has a higher cost. It's much less than any comparable opportunity that's available, but it is a lot more than the programs that we have in We Share Abundance.

It's a level at which most people in Europe, North America, Australia, New Zealand can easily afford. But it's at a level that many people in Asia, Africa and South America would find it difficult to commit to.

But without doubt, it offers a much faster route to a large income than any of our plans, and probably a greater income than any of our plans, even though in time our plans would give most people enough. And so it's with hand on heart that we have chosen to become a partner of VYB and to recommend it to our existing members as an extra income stream, and one that can be very profitable in a short space of time.

The more commitment you have in any business that you start, the more likely you are to succeed. And the people behind VYB have excellent training and a wonderful plan to help you succeed. And I would recommend that if you're going to get into VYB, you get in at the highest possible level that you can. Now, that doesn't mean that you take your grocery money and put it into VYB. You have to commit to what you can genuinely afford. Even if it's a bit of a stretch. It might mean you're giving up a little bit of a luxury in the short term while you're building your business so that you can have more of that luxury as time progresses.

Presently you can register with VYB totally free and you can learn all about it. Find out everything that they have to share with you, and I'm sure you'll be impressed, as I am, by the leadership that they have, and then commit to one of their packages and get started.

Now, I know for some of our members commitment of even $100, which is negligible to a lot of people in the United States or England or Germany or France would be a real challenge and so for that reason, we are providing a feeder plan for VYB, and details of that will be below on this page.

What I would suggest is you get into VYB now, at the moment that I'm recording this video, you can't even buy a package. There's no way you can pay anything, but you can register and get in and so I recommend that you do that.

And as soon as they announce the packages, consider which one you can afford and if you genuinely can't afford one, or maybe in some instances don't have the confidence to buy one, you will also have the opportunity through the feeder plan for just $11 a month to work your way up into VYB, and you can do that quite quickly if you apply yourself.

But as I said, the more commitment you have in any business, the greater your chances of success. So, commit as much as you can genuinely afford to put in without risking your rent money, your food money, things that you need for your essentials and then follow the wonderful training that'll be available from Megan Lynch and her management team.

That will help you to find the path to control your own destiny in life and not be buffeted by circumstances. I often regard We Share Abundance like a ship. The good ship Hope on its way to the port of Abundance in the Land of Eden. And it's strange, or maybe not a coincidence, but another similarity that Megan talks about it being an Ark that we are building that is going on this voyage of redemption.

We have common interests. We have common goals. We're here to help you succeed, between, We Share Abundance and VYB.

As long as you're prepared to commit to changing your life for the better, we'll be there to help you every step of the way.
God bless.